

Resource Guide | for Educators and Audiences

We include information about our production along with creative activities to make connections both before and after the show. For educators, all activities are aligned to the Common Core Standards and North Carolina Essential Standards. Look for the symbol below throughout the guide.

NCES-TheaArts.(K-5).TA.A.1: Analyze literary texts and performances. NCES-TheaArts.(K-5). TA.A.1.1: Recall the basic parts of a story, such as characters, setting, and events.

Touring production

For grades K through 1st

Written by Philip C. Stead and Illustrated by Erin E. Stead

> Adapted for the stage by Nicole B. Adkins

Text © 2010 By Philip Stead,

Illustrations © 2010 By Erin Stead

Published by Neal Porter Books / Roaring Brook Press

Themes explored compassion, friendship, kindness

Summary of A Sick Day for Amos McGee

Friends come in all sorts of shapes and sizes. In this heart-warming story about the joys of friendship, zookeeper Amos McGee knows friends can come in all sorts of species, too. Every day, Amos visits his animal friends at the zoo, running races with the tortoise, caring for a particularly shy penguin, and reading stories to an owl. One day, Amos is too sick to visit his zoo friends, but, fortunately, the animals know just what to do. Part of The Kindness Project.

Audience expectations

You may wish to have a discussion with your students about their role as an audience member. Live theatre only exists when an audience is present; their energy and responses directly affect the actors in performance.

Younger audiences should know watching live theatre isn't like watching more familiar forms of entertainment: there is no pause or rewind button, there are no commercials for bathroom breaks, and they can't turn up the volume if someone else is talking. Encourage your students to listen and watch the play intently, so they may laugh and cheer for their favorite characters when it is appropriate. At the end of the play, your applause is an opportunity to thank the actors for their performance. Here are some other guidelines to remember as well:

- Respect others audience members. Stay seated and keep your hands to yourself.
- Please turn off all cell phones and other electronic devices during the performance.
- Photography and recording of the performance is prohibited by copyright law.
- Food and drinks are not permitted in the space.

NCES-TheaArts.(K-5).TA.CU.2: Understand the traditions, roles, and conventions of theatre as an art form. NCES-TheaArts.3.TA.CU.2.1: Illustrate theatre etiquette appropriate to the performance situation.

The BIG QUESTIONS about the show

- 1. How did Amos show kindness to his animal friends at the zoo?
- 2. Why did the animals think it was important to visit Amos when he didn't show up to work?
- 3. How did the animals show Amos kindness?
- 4. What types of things do you do to show your friends kindness? What about your family?
- 5. How can you show kindness to people you don't know or have just met?

CCSS.ELA-Literacy.SL.(K-5).2: Ask and answer questions about key details in a text read aloud or information presented orally or through other media. NCES-TheaArts.2.TA.A.1.2: Analyze the relationships between events, characters, and settings.

About the Author and Illustrator

Philip C. Stead and Erin E. Stead are the husband and wife, and the author and illustrator of A Sick Day for Amos McGee (2010, Neal Porter Books/Roaring Brook Press), winner of the 2011 Caldecott Medal and a New York Times Best Illustrated Children's Book.

Illustration by Erin E. Stead

Recommended Reading

If you enjoyed the show, check out these books at your local Charlotte Mecklenburg library branch. Check availability at cmlibrary.org.

> What Do You Do If You Work at the Zoo? by Steve Jenkins and Robin Page

> > We're Going to the Zoo by Tom Paxton

> > > Bear Feels Sick by Karma Wilson

Feeding Time at the Zoo by Sherry Shahan

If Animals Tried to Be Kind by Ann Whitford Paul

The Opposite Zoo by II Sung Na

Amos Misses the Bus by Philip C. Stead Every play Children's Theatre of Charlotte produces is created by a talented team of designers, technicians, actors and a director. As a class, discuss what you experienced when you saw the performance.

THEATRE CORNER

- Name three things you noticed about the set. Did the set help tell the story? What sort of set would you have designed?
- 2. What did you like about the costumes? Did the costumes help tell the story? What sort of costumes would you have designed?
- 3. What role did lighting play in telling the story? How did the lights enhance what you were seeing?
- 4. Talk about the actors. Were there moments you were so caught up in the story you forgot you were watching a play?
- 5. Were there any actors who played more than one character? What are some ways you can be the same person but play different characters?

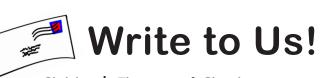

NCES-TheaArts.(K-5).TA.A.1: Analyze literary texts and performances. NCES-TheaArts.(K-5).TA.AE.1.2: Understand how costumes [and technical elements] enhance dramatic play.

Want more activities and content?

Access our Pinterest board for all kinds of crafts, inspirations, and more.

Children's Theatre of Charlotte 300 E 7th St. Charlotte, NC 28202

CCSS.ELA-LITERACY.L.(K-5).1: Demonstrate command of the conventions of standard English grammar and usage when writing or speaking.

Children's Theatre of Charlotte is supported, in part, by the Infusion Fund and its generous donors, and the North Carolina Arts Council, a division of the Department of Natural & Cultural Resources.

Infusion Fund A Partnership for Arts + Culture

Meet the Actors

SULTAN OMAR EL-AMIN (Amos McGee)

Sultan Omar El-Amin was born and raised in Charlotte, NC. Graduate of North Carolina A&T State University, he holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts in Professional Theatre. Of the many professional theatre projects in which he has been fortunate enough to be featured, one of his most memorable roles was that of Miles Davis in the original choreopoem, Miles and Coltrane Blue (.), directed by Quentin Talley. Sultan's personal and professional aspiration is to utilize his talents to effect positive change and to inspire other artists to make a difference in the world.

CORINA CHILDS (Puppeteer)

Corina Childs is excited to join the Children's Theatre of Charlotte family on tour this year for A Sick Day for Amos McGee and Confessions of a Former Bully. Although this is her first time performing with Children's Theatre of Charlotte, she has previously been seen in Sister Act at Matthews Playhouse, as well as The Wedding Singer, Almost Maine, and Our Place at Central Piedmont Community College where she also works as a House Manager. She also has just finished an internship with Blumenthal Performing Arts this past summer. She was raised in the Charlotte area and outside of performing has helped costume some shows as well. Her other interests include baking, reading, binging TV shows, and spending time with her family, friends, and many pets!

ANNA GOLDSTEIN (Puppeteer)

Anna Goldstein is a graduate of Winthrop University with a BA in Theatre Performance and a minor in K-12 Education and has a passion for working with and bringing theatre to children. Since graduating, Anna has enjoyed teaching theatre at the Levine Jewish Community Center and gaining a variety of performance experiences. Some of her favorite roles include Nan Carter in Exit, Pursued by a Bear at Winthrop University, Philoclea with Actors' Theatre of Charlotte (though sadly cut short by Covid), as well as Snoopy and a variety of original characters at Carowinds. The Resident Touring Company is Anna's first role with Children's Theatre of Charlotte, and she is thrilled to be helping bring accessible theatre to regional schools.